

Control Point Heating ? Cooling ? Plumbing ? Electric Adds Drain Cleaning Services

July 17, 2026

SHREWSBURY, MA - July 17, 2026 -

Control Point Heating ? Cooling ? Plumbing ? Electric has added drain cleaning services to its plumbing offerings. The family-owned company, founded in 2007, now provides professional drain cleaning for residential and commercial properties to address clogs and restore proper drainage throughout plumbing systems.

Technicians use camera inspections to locate and identify the sources of blockages in pipes. This diagnostic method enables targeted removal of accumulated materials such as grease, food scraps, hair, soap residue, and other debris that build up over time. The service applies to various drain types, including floor drains, sinks, shower drains, and utility drains. Professional intervention is often required when household remedies fail to provide lasting results or when problems recur frequently in a property.

Common indicators that may signal the need for drain cleaning include multiple slow drains in different areas of a building, foul odors emanating from pipes, gurgling sounds from drains or toilets, and persistent clogs that return after initial clearing attempts. Unresolved issues can escalate to more significant backups and potential damage to sewer lines. Control Point utilizes approaches designed to clear drains effectively while limiting disruption to the property and its occupants.

Nick Lupo founded the company in 2007 with an emphasis on reliable service delivery for both residential and commercial clients. Control Point offers heating, cooling, plumbing, and electrical solutions. Its team possesses more than 286 years of combined industry experience. In January 2023, Danielle Boland joined as co-owner and Director of Strategy and Business Operations. The addition of drain cleaning services expands the plumbing services available to clients in the region.

The company supports preventive care through its VIP Club maintenance program. Scheduled visits include inspections that can help detect potential drain issues early before they develop into larger problems. This program offers priority scheduling and routine checks for participating homeowners, contributing to the long-term functionality of plumbing systems.

Nick Lupo commented, saying, "The addition of drain cleaning services strengthens our ability to address a wider range of plumbing needs encountered by property owners."

He added, "This expansion aligns with the company's ongoing development of comprehensive solutions since its founding in 2007."

Control Point maintains full licensing and insurance along with EPA certification. Its core operating principles of accountability, initiative, solution-oriented thinking, customer focus, and employee wellness guide project execution and staff training. Regular training keeps technicians current with techniques across all service areas, including the latest methods for effective drain cleaning.

In addition to drain cleaning, the company handles pipe repairs, sewer line services, water heater maintenance, water filtration systems, and backflow prevention. Electrical and HVAC services complement these offerings, allowing for coordinated responses to interconnected system issues that may involve multiple trades. Technicians apply consistent standards to both residential and commercial work, whether addressing routine maintenance or more complex repairs.

The integrated service model supports efficient management of multiple building systems within individual projects when needed. Control Point has adapted to technological changes and customer requirements over its history. The inclusion of drain cleaning further broadens the support provided for property infrastructure maintenance and helps property owners maintain reliable plumbing performance.

Drain cleaning contributes to the reliable operation of plumbing systems essential for daily activities in homes and businesses. Proper drainage function supports sanitation, prevents disruptions to water flow, and reduces the risk of emergencies. The company continues to expand its service offerings while maintaining workmanship standards that meet the needs of the communities it serves.

Over nearly two decades, Control Point has built its reputation through consistent project delivery. The expansion into drain cleaning services allows the firm to respond more completely to the full spectrum of plumbing challenges that arise in residential and commercial settings. This development reflects the company's commitment to evolving its offerings in response to common customer requirements.
